How to be an Advocate and Ally

Armenise Amphitheater, Harvard Medical School

Alicia Oeser, Director of the Office of Sexual Assault Prevention and Response
Harvard University

Our safety and comfort in the workplace has a direct impact on our health and wellness as individuals and as a community. We will discuss the ways that gender inequities, racism, heterosexism and transphobia intersect in the workplace and how they may impact the mission of our schools. We will discuss our individual role in creating a better environment for everyone.

This session is geared toward staff at Harvard Medical School, Harvard School of Dental Medicine, and Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health who would like to explore their role in creating a culture of inclusion, equity and respect.

All are welcome to attend. Special attention will be paid to the daily work lives of Harvard Longwood Campus staff.

RSVP: www.surveymonkey.com/r/_Ally

Questions? Jessica Halem, LGBT Office, jessica_halem@hms.harvard.edu